

The diagram illustrates a printing layout with various lines and dimensions. A horizontal blue line with arrows at both ends spans the width of the page. Two vertical green lines are positioned on the left side, with a double-headed arrow between them. Two diagonal grey lines originate from the top edge, one pointing to the left green line and the other to the right green line. A horizontal double-headed arrow is located below the green lines. The entire layout is enclosed in a red border.
