

The diagram illustrates a print layout with three main types of lines: a red cut line, a blue safety line, and two green fold lines. The red cut line is the outermost boundary. The blue safety line is inside the red line, with a horizontal double-headed arrow indicating the area between them. The two green fold lines are further inward, with a horizontal double-headed arrow between them. Arrows also point from the text to the top corners of the red line. The finished size is 6.030x9, and the size with bleed is 12.125x9.125.
